Lincoln Star Special

Central City, Neb.—Walter R. Raecke, attorney, former state senator and leading Nebraska Democrat, died Saturday night following a heart attack earlier last week. He was 64.

Mr. Raecke entered the hospital last Monday following a heart attack. He had suffered other attacks in January and in the summer of 1958.

Funeral services are set for 2:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Central City. Burial will be in Central City cemetery.

He was a member of the Legislature from 1941 to 1949, serving as speaker in 1947. He also was the Democratic candidate for governor in 1950 and 1952.

Governor Brooks Sunday commented that "Nebraska has lost one of its greatest contributors to governmental and political thought."

Native Of State

Mr. Raecke was born in Grand Island, educated in Merrick County rural schools, Central City High School, and the University of Nebraska, where he received his law degree in 1917.

During World War I, he served as an officer in the infantry. He had served as Sixth District commander and state judge advocate of the American Legion.

He served as Merrick County attorney from 1919 until Phi Alpha Tau fraternities, president of the senior law class, and active in debate and track.

Surviving him are his wife, Orral; one daughter, Mrs. Donald Prince of Minden; two sons, Richard J. of Waterloo and William R. of Lincoln; a brother, Otto A. of Auburn, N.Y.; a sister, Mrs. Freeman Bestian of Taylor Ridge, Ill., and 6 grandchildren.

Steven Inness, 8, of 4325 M found his kite went up all right, but crashed because of too strong winds Sunday. Nancy Worster, 13, of 3318 M, reported the weather was perfect for a game of jacks in the sunshine. (Staff Photos by Web Ray.)

VERWOERD ATTACKER FACES QUICK ACTION ... SECRET ARRAIGNMENT SEEN

Omaha Woman's Death: Husband In Pen To Be Quizzed

Omaha (P)—A 36-year-old man, now serving time in the Nebraska Penitentiary for attempted robbery, will be questioned Monday in the death of his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Mason, about 35.

Mrs. Mason's body was found Saturday night in a shallow grave on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Merica, just northeast of the intersection of State Highways 36 and 133, about halfway between Bennington and Omaha. The body was identified through wedding and engagement rings during an autopsy Sunday afternoon. The autopsy showed the woman had died of a bullet wound. She was last seen Oct. 15.

Douglas County Sheriff's officers said Richard Mason, 36, was sentenced to the Nebraska Penitentiary March 30 for 5 years for attempted robbery.

Mrs. Mason's body was spotted by Ronnie Merica, grandson of the Earl Mericas, as he was hitting the underbrush in search of rabbits. The elder Merica was checking his farm at the time for possible damage from last week's eastern Nebraska floods.

Ronnie said he saw a toe protruding from the grave and notified his grandfather who called authorities. The body was covered by about 6 inches of dirt, and was nude from the waist down.

Sheriff's officers said the Masons were acquainted with the Mericas and had visited the farm frequently.

Former Employee
The Mericas said Mason worked part-time for them on the farm and lived there for a time after he told friends last October his wife had "left" for California.

"We have been flabbergasted at the whole thing," Merica said Sunday. "You couldn't ask for a nicer guy—or a better worker. They started coming out to the farm on weekends and evenings. He helped us with the haying."

Mason currently is in prison on a charge relating to an incident involving Earl Merica's widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Luelle M. Merica, 51, and her daughter, Carolina, 18.

After he visited with them for an hour Feb. 3, he produced a pistol and demanded money. Mrs. Merica was bound and gagged while he took the daughter to search the house for money. He later fled.

Mason was arrested by Washington County Sheriff Rudy Nick near Blair while attempting to start his stalled car on a narrow land. At the time, Nick said Mason had written notes indicating he considered suicide.

Merica said the Masons stayed on the farm for two weeks two years ago to tend livestock while the family vacationed.

The couple's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Merica, probably were the last persons to see Mrs. Mason alive.

"It was about Oct. 15," they recalled Sunday. "We played cards all evening. Oh, they quarreled once in a while. But mildly, like most couples."

The Dan Mericas said later in October, Mason told them his wife had gone to the West Coast to see her 15-year-old son.

"Sometimes they told us the boy was theirs but lived under another name than Mason," Mrs. Merica said.

Bullet In Head
The autopsy showed Mrs. Mason died of a .32 caliber bullet wound in the head.

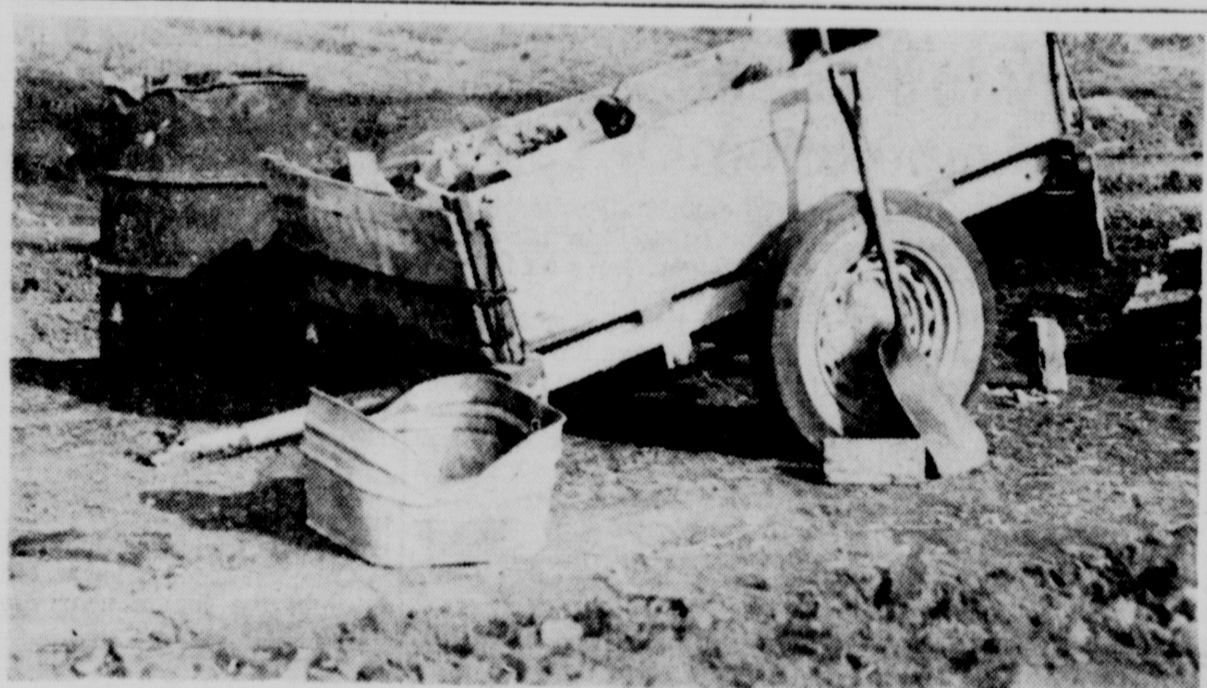

Lt. Edward Clinchard of the sheriff's office said the bullet entered Mrs. Mason's head at the rear and lodged in the jaw.

Sgt. Glen Gates of Omaha police said police had tried to contact Mrs. Mason in February, writing to relatives she had in Meadowlake, Wash.

Gates said police had learned that Mason had also been known as Richard Ruhr, an escapee from the state hospital for the criminally insane at Larned, Kan., with a prior conviction for rape.

"Again, we tried to contact Mrs. Mason in an attempt to get a psychiatric evaluation of Mason before his trial here," Gates said, "but no answer."

Surviving him are his parents; two brothers, Francis Eugene and John Ervin Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Peter Orr, all of Lincoln.

Tipping Trailer Kills 6-Year-Old Lincoln Boy

A freak accident in a backyard took the life of a 6-year-old Lincoln boy Sunday.

Mark A. Doudney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Doudney of 7245 Custer, was killed when the tongue of a two-wheel trailer fell on him, police said.

The boy apparently was playing in front of the trailer that was loaded with brick, police said. The trailer which was tilted to the back apparently toppled forward and the tongue fell on the child, they added.

The boy was dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Funeral services for the youth will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at Belmont Baptist Church, the Rev. Ralph Belknap officiating. Burial will be at Lincoln Memorial Park.

Surviving him are his par-

ADMIRER FLYNN—

'Life Ruined'—Youth Is Dead

Hollywood (P)—William Stanciu, an aspiring actor who tried to follow in the late Errol Flynn's footsteps, died Sunday—about 24 hours after he shot himself in front of Beverly Aadland, Flynn's last flame.

Beverly, a 17-year-old nightclub entertainer, told police Stanciu, 21, forced his way into her apartment at gunpoint and raped her early Saturday. She said he threatened to kill her.

Her story was bitterly denied by the dead youth's brother, Kenneth, 22, another would-be actor whose professional name is Shawn Tanner. He told the Associated Press:

"Why would Billy want to rape her? He and Beverly have been going together every night for 6 weeks. Everybody in town knows that."

Wouldn't Wed
Miss Aadland, who has been taken to juvenile hall, told authorities Stanciu asked to marry her and that she refused.

"He told me that I had ruined his life—that he loved me, but I didn't love him, and he was going to kill me," Kenneth asserted. "Beverly asked Billy to marry her a few weeks ago."

"My brother didn't run after her ... He was a body-builder, a good-looking guy who had all the girls he wanted."

He said he was certain that his brother didn't shoot himself because:

"He wasn't that kind of a guy. He had everything to live for. Today was his 21st birthday."

"Tonight he was going to

Troops Stage Massive Raid Among Natives

Johannesburg, South Africa (P)—Officials were reported Sunday preparing a quick and possibly secret arraignment of the debonair white farmer who shot down Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd in an assassination attempt.

As the plans went forward the cabinet prepared to meet Monday to discuss South Africa's deepening racial crisis and the situation arising from the shooting.

The 58-year-old Verwoerd, unbending champion of white supremacy and racial segregation, was brushed from the helm of the nation's affairs Saturday as South Africa faced its most fearsome challenge from 10 million Negroes.

With two small caliber bullets still in his head, Verwoerd was still well enough Sunday to be removed from Johannesburg to a Pretoria hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition. Doctors said he was resting well and there was no need for an immediate operation to remove the bullets.

Shacks Raided

As an ambulance sped the wounded prime minister to Pretoria, 600 police and 1,000 troops moved into the troubled Negro settlement of Cato Manor, outside the east coast city of Durban, and made a shack-to-shack search.

They arrested more than 300 Africans, holding 143 of them, and seized a truckload of spears, knives, axes and 7 sticks of dynamite.

The 8-hour raid, beginning at dawn, was one of the largest ever carried out in Natal province.

The settlement is a hotbed of resistance to Verwoerd's white supremacy laws.

Anderson Talented As Speaker, Farmer

By Glenn Kreuscher
Staff Farm Writer

It takes a special knack to raise 100 bushel corn and be equally proficient as a toastmaster at community events.

The farmer with this versatile ability is Merle Anderson of Ayr who believes it is important for the farmer to participate in community affairs.

The well planned modern farmstead and home on the 700-acre Anderson farm has a home-like appearance nestling behind the protection of trees and at the curve of the road where both sides of the land are producing bumper crops and feed for the registered Hereford cows and Landrace hogs.

Theory Dispelled

For the man who thinks you have to be born on the farm to be a farmer—the theory is dispelled when you learn that Anderson came to the country from town where he was born and raised.

"It takes the same business like ability to farm that it does in business and today things are changing so fast on the farm that one is constantly learning new methods in farming," says Anderson.

The person getting credit for a lot of good practical advice is his father-in-law, Willard Kissinger of Hastings.

Minimum Tillage Meet Set

... At Ag College

A special meeting on Minimum Tillage Practices for corn producers will be held at the College of Agriculture Monday, April 18.

The College has received many questions from farmers regarding minimum tillage as a means of planting corn under existing soil conditions this spring.

Minimum tillage offers a means of planting corn without plowing. In many cases soil moisture conditions may prohibit plowing, said Delbert Lane, Extension agricultural engineer at the College.

The all day meeting will feature a discussion of minimum tillage practices and possibly a demonstration of planting by minimum tillage. Those attending also will get a chance to view soil tillth and weed population on a corn field that has been planted by minimum tillage for six years.

College specialists also will discuss minimum tillage practices in regard to application of herbicides, insecticides, and fertilizers. The economic factors in minimum tillage also will be discussed.

The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. April 18 in the Agricultural Engineering Building on the College campus.

4 In Family Found Dead

Weston, Wyo., (P) — Four members of a prominent Wyoming family were found shot to death Sunday in their ranch home on the outskirts of Weston.

All 4 members of the family had been shot once in the head with a 30-30 rifle.

Coroner Leroy Noecker identified the dead as Mike Mader, 38; his wife, Betty, 30, and their two children, Myra, 8, and Mike 6.

his lower producing acres and establishing them to grass.

"This method offers two advantages, the cows will produce more net profit from the land than farming and it gives me more time for the special care I like to give my irrigated land," explains Anderson.

Although everything always seems to be done, and the place always shows good maintenance, Anderson has arranged to find time to spend on community affairs.

The Adams Co. fair has been a project that Anderson has spent a good deal of time developing, and as the current president of the fair board he thinks a good county fair takes year round efforts.

There is a world of water in Anderson's area and it is to

Cooking Oil Defendants Face Trial

Rabat, Morocco (P) — Twenty-seven Moroccan merchants charged with making and marketing adulterate cooking oil which paralyzed nearly 10,000 people go on trial Monday. Four, accused of directing the operation face the death penalty; the other 23 are accused as accomplices.

The product contained American jet engine flushing oil, 6,000 gallons of which were disposed of by the U.S. Air Force at surplus sales in Morocco last year.

Police said the merchants mixed the flushing oil with peanut or olive oil to increase their profits. They gave it an Arabic brand name similar to a reputable French brand of cooking oil.

Victims Many By government count, 9,544 people were stricken with paralysis last November after eating food cooked in the oil. It created a nationwide polio scare until analysts found the malady was caused by Ortho-Tricresyl-Phosphate, OTP, a common ingredient of engine oils, destroys the motor nerves and less than one gram of it can paralyze an adult for life.

Most of the victims are still hospitalized in emergency clinics where they are getting treatment from international medical teams supplied by a dozen countries. Only a handful of the less acute cases have been cured so far. Doctors fear most of the others are incurable.

All are being cared for by the state.

The 4-H Club members that have horse projects will qualify for awards sponsored by the University of Nebraska Rodeo Club for county and state events.

The awards, offered for the first time, will include a medal for each county 4-H winner and a trophy for the state winner, reports Elwin Ranney, Weeping Water, Rodeo Club spokesman.

Enrollment in the riding horse project has doubled in the past 5 years, according to Louie Rudman, associate state leader of 4-H.

The Rodeo Club also sponsors two $100 scholarships each year.

The number of cows on test in the Cornhusker DHIA has increased 8 times in the past 5 years, according to Cyril Bish, Lancaster County Extension Agent.

Dairymen give a great deal of the credit to the testers for the association, Calvin and Dale Jacobson.

Bish advises dairymen that their goal in dairy production should be a herd that will average 10,000 pounds of milk and 400 pounds of butterfat a year.

To do this you need to use your DHIA records, Bish stresses.

Vic McClure, Thayer County extension agent, has this to say about high moisture corn, "If corn tests wetter now than when it came from the drier last fall, there is a reason for it."

He claims that high drying temperatures will dry the surplus of the kernel leaving the inside of it high in moisture. After a few days in the bin, the moisture redistributes through the kernels.

"If grain picked up 3 or 4 per cent of moisture as some folks think it would expand and could even break out of the bin," says McClure.

He gives this as a very important reason for insisting that corn be dried at temperatures not above 140 degrees.

"There are two reasons why you should not get corn too hot. Feeders don't want it, neither do the millers," explains McClure.

The lucky man who does have high moisture corn is the farmer that looked ahead and had some feeder pigs to consume the grain.

A University of Nebraska specialist said this week, "Feeder pigs may be one of the best possibilities for the Nebraska farmer to lick the wet corn problem."

Nebraska certified potato producers raised more potatoes of higher quality on fewer acres in 1959 as compared to 1958.

These facts were reported at the annual meeting of the Potato Certification Assn. of Nebraska this week.

Red LaSoda was the principal variety grown the past two years. Four new varieties came into production during 1959. They were Bounty and Norland from the University of Nebraska and North Dakota respectively, and Blanca and Navajo from the University of Colorado.

Donald L. Felton Dies

Donald L. Felton, 49, of 1610 Sunburst Lane, died Sunday after he suffered a heart attack. He was president of Felton and Wolf Co., an office equipment retail firm.

He was working in the yard of a relative when he suffered the heart attack and dropped, according to Assistant Chief Deputy Sheriff Delton Zieman, who acted as coroner.

Mr. Felton

Zieman said that Mr. Felton was taken by ambulance to a local hospital, but was dead on arrival.

Mr. Felton was chairman in 1951 of a Chamber of Commerce committee which arranged the formal opening of P Street between 9th and 17th after it was widened, resurfaced and mercury-lighted. The group also conducted a poll on renaming P St.

On Aug. 4, 1940, Mr. Felton and Fred J. Wolf announced the formation of the present store after they purchased the office equipment division of the former Huffman Supply Co.

Mr. Felton was a member and past master of Liberty Lodge 300, AF&AM.

He is survived by his wife, Helen; a daughter, Mrs. Jay Jacobs of Travers City, Mich.; a son, Donald L. Jr. of Lincoln; a sister, Mrs. Floyd Campbell of Lincoln, and two grandchildren. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Government Study Post To Judge Ronin

Lancaster County Judge Herbert Ronin was elected president of Cornhusker Boys' and Girls' County Government of Nebraska at the annual Board of Directors meeting.

Ronin succeeds Judge Robert Simmons, Chief Justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court, who resigned because of ill health.

The new president has been active in the program for many years as Lancaster County chairman.

Mrs. Ernest Sokolik of Beatrice was elected vice president.

Others beside Mrs. Sokolik and Ronin attending the meeting were: Frank Landis, department commander of the American Legion; Ray Oltman, assistant adjutant of the Legion; Mrs. Mable Luhrs, department president of the American Legion Auxiliary and Mary McVickers, department secretary of the Legion Auxiliary.

Korea, Japan Show Progress Toward Ending Long Strife

Tokyo (AP) — Japan and the Republic of Korea, two of America's strongest Asian allies, appear to be making headway toward patching up their strife-torn relations.

The moves can bring only delight to Washington, long concerned over the quarrel between the two.

The controversy has defied settlement for the past 7 years and has gladdened Asia's Communists.

What some describe as the weakest link in Asian security now seems about to be strengthened with the decision to reopen talks for normal relations April 15.

Far To Go

A total settlement admittedly still is a long way off, but many observers agree that this time the chances of success are greater than ever before.

They reason:
1. South Korea and Japan have just concluded an agreement for mutual release of detained nationals, mostly fishermen, thus clearing away a major cause of bitterness.
2. Japan has accepted a request from the Seoul government to buy 30,000 tons of Korean rice.

3. Seoul has notified Tokyo it is lifting the ban on Japanese trade. The ban was imposed last June in retaliation for Japan's decision to repatriate Koreans here to Communist North Korea on a voluntary basis.

Despite President Syngman Rhee's recent remarks that Japan remains a threat to Asian peace, observers in both Tokyo and Seoul sense a definitely conciliatory atmosphere. This situation has unofficially been attributed partly to pressure on Seoul from Washington. The other major factor is Korea's need for trade with Japan, which in 1958 bought 60% of Korea's exports.

Weak Relations

Korea was a Japanese colony before World War II and there have been no diplomatic ties since the end of the war.

In the new talks, the two neighbors will try to resolve issues they believe must be settled before establishing normal diplomatic relations. The main issues are:

1. The Rhee Line, a South Korea fishing boundary that extends an average of 60 miles off the Korean coast. Japan refuses to recognize it. Korean gunboats have seized Japanese fishermen operating inside this line.

2. Compensation for Koreans whom the Seoul government claims the Japanese militarists took to Japan for forced labor during the war. Most of these Koreans have long since been repatriated.

3. The return of Korean national art treasures long held in Japan and settlement of Korean property claims in Japan.

4. Ownership of Take Shima — or Tokdo as Koreans call it — a tiny island in waters between the two countries. Both Tokyo and Seoul claim it.

Arms Limits Eyed For Africa Nations

London (AP) — The Western Big 3 Sunday were reported planning to invite Russia to join in rationing the supply of arms to Africa's new nations.

Diplomatic authorities said if Premier Khrushchev accepts the idea at the summit meeting in Paris next month, the Big 4 will jointly seek the cooperation of the African countries.

Success of any such pilot-scheme in East-West arms limitation could clear the way for similar action in the Middle East and elsewhere, informants said.

No Half Measures

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

If some individual were only able to accept the middle ground in everything, he could really have things his own way. For there is apparently no demand for anything that is just a little bit used or perhaps a little out of style. Take, for instance, the little bride saying about the old, new, borrowed and blue—not a word about anything in between.

The Wall Street Journal reports that London genealogists are doing a booming business with Americans these days. They are the people who run down your family tree—tell you if your blood line involves nobility or just plain notoriety.

The Londoners have a variety of explanations for the interest of Americans in their heritages but the most correct analysis probably comes from a woman who runs one of the genealogical services. Her explanation of American interest is that "everything old is revered in America—it's something to covet."

There does seem to be a lot of truth in this. There are people who wouldn't be caught dead in a 10-year-old car but who would swell with pride over ownership of a brand new model or one of early 1900 vintage. And many of us, unfortunately, are keenly aware of this peculiarity in the realm of household furnishings.

Hardly any expenditure is too great for restoration of a historically or sentimentally important chair or table. Also, great pride is taken in any brand new piece of furniture. The stuff in between, however, is doomed to the sneers of its owner. The only thing it can look forward to is the day it becomes so old that its age has given it a new value. And who knows if anything of this day will ever be of much value?

According to the Journal story, the rage for family trees has brought about the rise of unscrupulous dealers who actually have no business being in the business. They know nothing about genealogy and often sell a customer a completely phony family tree. Many people never come to know that they have been taken in this way and the British seem to think there is something rather terrible about this. Probably it is terrible in that it represents a swindle but this is bad only as a moral principle.

For the individual involved, it is doubtful that the fake family tree is such a bad thing. The individual may not have the right slant on his ancestors but what is the difference so long as he doesn't know it? In fact, there is probably a good point to the fraud if you want to look at it in such a way. If the phony genealogist has any sense, he will give his client an acceptable background.

He should give the individual something in his pedigree which provides a good topic of conversation. It might be a touch of British nobility or perhaps just a long line of faithfulness and integrity. Or maybe the individual could have an ancestor some place who met a violent death in behalf of a worthy cause.

After all, the world was pretty violent in the 16th century ancestry of most Americans. If the phony family tree man is smart enough to do this, his client will be happy and no questions are likely to be asked. This is good in that it eliminates a lot of unpleasant truths. The real facts could very well produce some skeletons that would make us rather sorry we undertook the whole business to begin with.

In this case of family trees, it is a little hard to see where fact is of any more real value than fiction in probably 99 per cent of the cases. In cases where it might be a legally important matter, the individual concerned is likely to make sure that he has the services of a qualified genealogist. Actually, the real incentive behind the growing interest of Americans in their background is probably plain old curiosity. In this case it can be pretty expensive curiosity as some tracings can cost many thousands of dollars.

Your curiosity could probably be about as well satisfied by a little imagination coupled with pursuit of early English history. You can be assured that if your tree is traceable in England, some member of the family centuries ago was a witness to the great religious upheavals, social injustices and political persecutions which gave the world the shape it has today. Also, you would come out smarter this way as well as richer.

Real disarmament is made of entirely different stuff. It is a mutual agreement whereby the principles mean to divest themselves of war-making capacity and when that really starts to come off it will not consist of eliminating things that do not exist.

Indeed, the propaganda moves of Russia, and in the same breath the entry into atomic armament by a France which engages in the whole demonstration to increase its bargaining power, are denials of the true essence of disarmament because the actions are designed to be delusive.

This is not to say that there is no ingredient of sincerity in the desire for disarmament, but it is to say that phony declarations of reduced manpower and the like are wrong way methods and indicate that there is still a lot of soul searching to be done before real progress is to be seen.

oped a better and less costly instrument. But Mr. Hetherington, perhaps, reserved his finest compliment for the high schools. He appeared before several student bodies and engaged in across-the-table discussions with the students.

In effect he said, "I was impressed by the ease with which your students spoke as well as I was with their adult grasp of affairs of world moment." While he refrained from a comparative evaluation of British and American education he esteemed the American high school graduate as the better turned out product. He will take back to England a deep impression of America's great dedication to education and its generosity in terms of excellent facilities and faculties—all the more impressive because it stems from community action rather than national authority.

Lincoln people who had the good fortune to associate with Alastair Hetherington, editor of the Manchester Guardian, found that personable and energetic Englishman to be a fine experience.

No newcomer to the United States, he was, however, in Nebraska for the first time in his life. And if as a true Englishman and scholar he was performing his duty out studying "Her Majesty's provinces," he found this plains country to his liking.

Lincoln will remember at least two nice things he said.

He indicated that the outside world holds an erroneous view of the United States. It is believed this country consists of an admirably progressive and enlightened East and West coast with nothing worth mentioning in between—a sort of a great cultural and economic void. His agreeable discovery was that this central part of the country contains a culture and a global sensitivity that takes second place to none.

various segments of the press have spoken out with alarm on the recent nationwide TV show which dramatized the tragic life story of Ira Hayes, a now deceased American Indian, who was one of the Marines in the photograph of the flag-raising atop Mt. Surabachi on Iwo Jima. The TV script for Hayes had him saying that "they'd taken about 10,000 pictures that day—everybody knew it was a phony. Everybody on the island was laughing about that phony flag-raising picture."

The anger of the press is aroused for two reasons—personal pride and integrity and for the welfare of the nation. As a number of editorials have noted, the now famous Iwo Jima picture was not a fake. The picture was taken in seconds by a hurried photographer and the subjects in the picture did not even know the shot was made until told of it afterwards. This has been authenticated by first-hand reports from those on the scene at the time and by second-hand reports on remarks from Hayes before his death.

Had the picture been posed, it would have been somewhat of a deceit as the whole impact of the thing is its realism. It depicts the moment of glory when the flag was raised amid still violent fighting between the Marines and the Japanese. It was the second flag raised in that place and took the place of a much smaller flag hastily erected a little earlier. But those Marines who raised the flag in the picture were part of an advance patrol which suffered several killed and wounded on the way back down the hill to join their outfit.

Not only as a matter of pride with the press but as an important national symbol this is an important issue. The flag-raising picture has been transformed into a national monument in Washington, D.C., and in the minds of many Americans represents the fighting spirit and noble sacrifice of this country's armed forces during World War II. It is in no way a phony deal or a fake and the record proves this.

Flemming Silent Under Grilling

WASHINGTON — The cleavage between President Eisenhower and his chief cabinet officer on health benefits for the aged was brought sharply into focus during a recent closed-door grilling of health Secretary Arthur Flemming by the Ways and Means Committee.

The congressmen knew that Secretary Flemming had favored a liberal plan of federal aid to women over 62 and men over 65 in need of hospital care. In fact, they had understood he was privately for the Forand bill, which the American Medical Association has labeled "socialized medicine."

"They also knew that President Eisenhower had emphatically opposed the Forand bill. Finally they knew that after various White House huddles, Ike had instructed Flemming to draft a "voluntary" health program for the aged which would be handled by the big insurance companies.

But they couldn't get the embarrassed Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare to elaborate on the differences between himself and the President.

"Isn't this so-called voluntary program that the Eisenhower administration favors really a subsidy for private insurance firms?" asked Rep. Aime Forand of

Rhode Island, author of the Aid-to-Aged Bill. "I would like a 'yes' or 'no' answer, Mr. Secretary."

Flemming hemmed and hawed, finally agreed with Forand's conclusion.

"Not long ago I heard you make a very convincing speech to a group of social workers, in which you stated that the problem of medical care for the aged could no longer be delayed, that it couldn't, in your own words, be 'swept under the carpet.'" Democrat Thad Machrowicz of Michigan reminded Flemming.

"I agree with you but would like to know if you have a program and, if so, what it is? I mean a program of your own."

Flemming replied that, as a member of the President's cabinet, he would follow the wishes of the President in devising a program.

"That still doesn't answer the question to my satisfaction," broke in Democrat William Green of Philadelphia. "Isn't it fair to assume that, as secretary of health, you do have a program of your own? Isn't it also fair to assume that you presented that program to the White House?"

Secretary Flemming did not answer.

South America A Powder Keg

WASHINGTON — Not long ago Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, delivered perhaps the most scathing attack heard to date on the Eisenhower foreign policy. It had the hell-fire and brimstone of the McCarthy era and while the senator named neither the President nor his secretary of state clearly they were the authors of the appeasement bringing ruin on the nation.

Coming from a Republican rather than from the opposition, this raises an interesting question about how foreign policy will figure in the coming political campaign. On balance it is unlikely to be a major issue as it was in 1952 when General Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, repeatedly attacked the Truman-Acheson "record of catastrophe" that he charged had brought on the Korean War.

The response to the President's proposal for a moratorium on small nuclear explosions and a binding treaty covering all others has been on the whole bipartisan. Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee believes such a treaty, if negotiated, can be ratified before Congress adjourns in July.

But while at the top level foreign policy as such is unlikely to be in dispute, there are signs that the sniping characteristic of past campaigns will be revived.

Behind this threat is a horrible nightmare that may become a reality before November. The fall of the dictator of the Dominican Republic, Rafael Trujillo, whose position is increasingly more uncertain, could

The Nobleman's Son

The Evangelist does not tell us the nature of this boy's illness. But we learn that it was so serious, "he was at the point of death."

The boy had been treated by the best physicians the country had to offer. But none of their remedies seemed to help. The child lay on his bed, limp and all but lifeless.

When his father heard that Jesus had come to Cana he decided to seek the Nazarene's help. He had heard of the wonderful cures effected by this strange Man, who was some kind of prophet. And, although the nobleman was not a follower of Jesus, he was desperate that his child should live.

As his servants saddled an ass and prepared for his journey, the father entered his son's room for a final word of encouragement and what he feared might be a final farewell.

"I will bring back a man who will make you well," he told the boy. "He has healed many people who were as sick as you. He can work miracles." The boy smiled feebly, but there was a brief light of faith in his eyes.

He trusted his father's word. Would his father trust the word of Jesus?

"Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe," Jesus told him, when

"And there was a certain nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum."

—John IV:46

the nobleman found the Master, and begged Him to come to Capernaum to heal his son.

Half numb with anxiety, the father scarcely heard. He pleaded with Jesus again: "Sir, come down, ere my child die."

Seeing his faith, Jesus said, "Go thy way; thy son liveth."

And the father believed Him. As he was on his way home, he met his servants who told him that his son had recovered.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: WHAT IS YOUR OPINION OF CURRENT CONSIDERATION BY CITY OFFICIALS OF THE POSSIBILITY OF ESTABLISHMENT OF A RETIREMENT PROGRAM FOR ALL CITY EMPLOYEES?

Flood Help

Omaha, Neb.

I was very much impressed with your column entitled "Flood Prevention Answers" (Star, April 1) If anything, you may have been overly compassionate in your assessment of the reasons for the lack of flood protection work on the Elkhorn and the sporadic study of the problems on the Platte.

Working with local interests in matter such as this is one of the long-time responsibilities which the Mississippi Valley Association assumes when and where there is sufficient interest to warrant it. There has been sufficient interest in the Salt-Wahoo basin, the Floyd River basin near Sioux City, Indian Creek at Council Bluffs, the Sioux River at Sioux Falls, the Vermillion River and a host of others, including of course the major project of all—comprehensive development of the Missouri River itself. On those projects, we have been the guiding force for many years.

Piloting one of these projects through Congress to successful completion is a long, laborious and complex task. Each year the problem becomes more acute because there is terrific competition for the federal appropriations available for local and basin-wide projects and all over the nation there are local interest groups, not only fired up and working but also possessing the patience to stay with the problem for the required number of years.

Fortunately or unfortunately, depending on your point of view, there are no short cuts. Congress moves very slowly on such matters and the amount of investigation and analysis required before federal money is appropriated is more thorough than in any other branch of federal expenditure. This is in spite of all the loose talk one hears about "pork barrel."

As you doubtless know, the Corps of Engineers can only go so far. Local interests, with the help and knowledge of skilled water resource organizations such as ours, must undertake the actual aggressive drive to push a project through Congress after the Corps comes up with a feasible engineering plan. In fact, the local groups must fight for the study money before the Corps can even put their people to work developing a feasible program.

Naturally, support from the congressmen and senators serving the area and from the governor is utterly essential, but beset as they are with a myriad of other problems, they welcome the continuing advice and counsel of the Valley Association, whose single purpose is water resource development. This is particularly true in working with the Corps of Engineers, arranging for congressional testimony and securing support from other areas.

The Mississippi Valley Association is completely non-political and non-profit. We have been involved in water resources development problems for 42 years. Our Missouri River Division office in Omaha has been active since 1944. The association will offer its services to the civic, business and agricultural leadership along the streams flooded this spring and if there is sufficient interest, maybe we can help prevent a recurrence of the disastrous flood damage which cost our state so much this year.

Wild West

Lincoln, Neb.

Seeing the frequent stories on Nebraska's part in reliving the old Pony Express of a hundred years ago has been a welcome part of the news to many people. It might be hard for some of our young people today to understand the importance of this historic mode of communications but if so, this is all the more reason for giving it publicity.

This current observance brings back to our thoughts days of long ago when there were horizons to follow of a kind which challenge us today. When the pony riders risked their lives to move the mails across the plains and mountains of the fledgling west they were sparking and building the character of people destined to achieve greatness.

In a period of violence and turmoil in the history of the nation these riders provided the link that kept east and west united. It was the courage and conviction of the men of the Pony Express that led to later developments which formed the foundation of today's modern system of transportation and communication. The stories on this anniversary of the Pony Express have been constructive and appreciated.

PIONEER

A Compromise

Lincoln, Neb.

There has been discussion of a northeast diagonal. The need is obvious and especially the bypassing of the Nebraska campus. But because of the cost and need for improvements elsewhere, start on the project has been delayed.

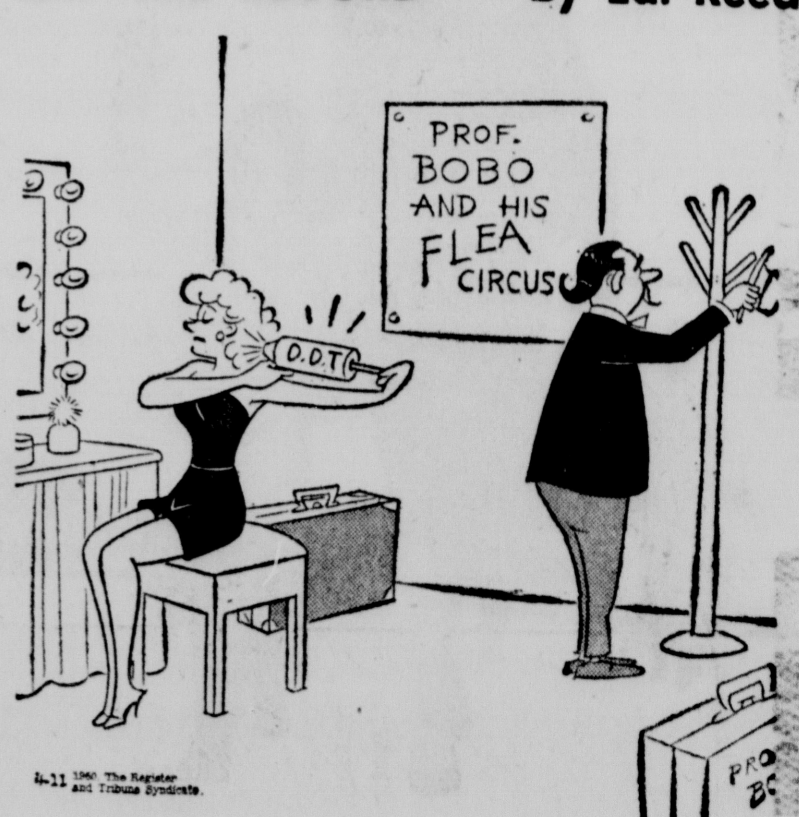

I agree that the northeast diagonal should not come first to the detriment of certain other needs. However, couldn't we compromise—especially when it seems apparent that a considerable northeast traffic passes both Holdrege and Vine to enter the downtown area via O Street, putting an extra traffic burden on O?

Now, the compromise I have in mind is this: Instead of undertaking to finish the northeast diagonal at one time, construct just the R Street-to-Holdrege segment. Such a compromise would allow for other-needed improvements, yet fulfill Chancellor Hardin's desire for the bypassing of the campus. Also, it should help relieve O of some traffic.

If proponents of the northeast diagonal would join Chancellor Hardin in petitioning the Council for the segment, I am hopeful they will be given a receptive hearing.

Wintry Weather Blamed For Climb In Unemployment During Past Month

Unemployment in Nebraska increased slightly during March, contrary to the normal spring pattern, the State Labor Department's division of employment security reports.

The jobless increase was blamed on the severe winter weather which delayed construction projects, and the late Easter date, which tended to retard the upsurge of trade activities in March.

Registered jobless seeking work as of April 1 this year totaled 17,135, an increase of 34% over last year's April 1 total of 12,757 for the state.

Unemployment insurance claimants averaged 11,500 per week during March, compared to 10,339 in February, and 8,497 in March, 1959.

On Rise

Job placements in non-farm positions totaled 5,330 during March, compared to 4,529 in February and almost equal to the March, 1959 total of 5,336.

New applicants for work at local division offices totaled 4,572 in March, compared to 3,104 for the same month last year.

Lincoln reported a March decline of 150 in employment, bringing the total employment in the metropolitan area down to 58,350. All of the decrease occurred in nonfarm industries, with construction employment reported 400 below a year ago.

More Seekers

Omaha cited lack of job opportunities and some layoffs as the main reasons for the 4,702 registered job seekers as of April 1, 769 more than a year ago.

Hastings reported a total of 1,024 job seekers, about 250 more than last year.

Nebraska City reported an increase in employer orders during March, but cited short-time snow removal jobs as the volume factor. At the close of March 906 persons were seeking work, compared to 728 a year ago.

In western Nebraska, labor demand began to rise during March, decreasing the number of jobless. The same trend is expected to occur during April in eastern parts of the state.

Big Mo Reservoir System Passes Flood Control Test

The Missouri River reservoir system passed its first large-scale flood control operation with a reported prevention of many million dollars of flood damage to downstream cities and rural areas.

The Omaha river reservoir control center reported that flood peaks at Omaha, Nebraska City and Kansas City were reduced by from 100,000 to 140,000 cubic feet per second during crest periods as a result of flood emergency operation of the reservoir system in March.

Total water storage totaled 28,633,000 acre - feet at the close of March, establishing a new record for the 5 upstream reservoirs. A spectacular gain of more than 4 1/2 million acre-feet was attained over the past year.

Due to high runoff, no release of storage water from the dams has been needed to aid the navigation level of the Missouri, and probably will not be needed until late April.

The Missouri river control system includes the Gavins Point, Fort Randall, Oahe, Garrison and Fort Peck dams and reservoirs.

Ex-Nebraskan Has Eye On Possible White House Desk

The daughter of a former Nebraska congressman may be working at a desk in the White House come next January if political fortune continues to shine on Sen. John Kennedy.

Mrs. Evelyn Norton Lincoln, formerly of Omaha, is Kennedy's private secretary in Washington.

Another Nebraskan, Ted Sorensen of Lincoln, is the Massachusetts senator's administrative assistant and chief advisor.

Mrs. Lincoln

Started In '52

Mrs. Lincoln first began working for Kennedy in 1952 when the senator was a member of the House of Representatives.

Although she was at that time working for a Southern congressman, Mrs. Lincoln was so enthusiastic about Kennedy that she worked for him during the evening hours on a voluntary basis.

When Kennedy was elected to the Senate, he asked her to join his staff.

Grew In Politics

Mrs. Lincoln was raised from childhood in an atmosphere of politics.

Her father—John N. Norton of Polk—served as Fourth District congressman in 1927-29 and 1931-33. He later was a Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Evelyn is married to Harold W. Lincoln, formerly of Lexington.

Following early schooling, Mrs. Lincoln enrolled at George Washington University to study political science.

Class Boycott Urged Over Firing Of Prof

Champaign, Ill., (UPI)—A student "liberal" group Sunday urged University of Illinois students to boycott classes Monday in an "academic freedom" protest over the firing of a professor.

But there was little indication that many of the university's 17,000 students would demonstrate against the dismissal of Leo F. Koch, 44, who publicly advocated premarital sex relations among students.

Robert Backoff, president of the student senate, said he thought parents were more aroused than students.

Koch was dismissed last Thursday by University President David D. Henry, who charged that the biology professor's letter to the student newspaper urging more sexual freedom was "offensive and repugnant."

About 1,500 students, led by members of the "liberal" group, the Committee for Liberal Action, Saturday held a slogan - shouting, chanting demonstration against Henry's action.

Confucius Birth Set

Taipei, Formosa — A controversy over the birth date of confucius was settled here. A government press release last year giving 550 B.C. as the year the great Chinese sage was born brought a flood of protests so the Education Ministry and the Academia Sinica, highest research body in Nationalists China, were directed to investigate. Their verdict: 551 B.C.

Alumni Called 'The Hope' Of Universities

Its own alumni are the hope of higher education in the United States, the Nebraska Alumnus, the alumni magazine of the University of Nebraska, says in a special 16-page report in its current issue released Monday.

Last year, alumni were the greatest single source of gifts to higher education, the report says. Even so, only about one in 4 alumni made any financial contribution to his alma mater.

If higher education is to remain strong in this country, the report says, alumni support—financial and other—must increase substantially. How well alumni support their alma mater often influences an institution's ability to recruit support from other sources, the report notes.

Many business organizations, for example, have "matching gifts" programs. If an employee makes a contribution to his college or university, the company will match it with an equal contribution of its own.

Steel Output Up

Luxembourg — Steel production by the 6-nation European coal and steel community totaled 18,183,000 tons in the first 3 months of 1960, an announcement from the organization says. Production during the same period of 1959 was 14,177,000 tons.

Dear Abby-- Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 15 and likes to read. He goes to the public library every Saturday and brings home an armload of books. Lately he has been reading some books that seem immoral to us. We are not highly educated people so we don't know what is considered good literature and what is plain dirty. The books I refer to have been best-sellers in the past few years, so I think you know which ones I mean. I skimmed through them and saw some 4-letter words we don't use in this house. Our son says if the books are in the public library they are O.K. What is your opinion?

YOUNG MAN'S PARENTS
DEAR PARENTS: Books do not gain acceptance merely by being in the public library. Many popular books full of 4-letter words and purple passages can be found there. You may not be "highly educated" but your instincts are correct. The churches, teachers and librarians are the best guides for young readers.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to point out to "The Sister of Ed and Paul" that she'd better wipe the tears out of her eyes and read a book on wedding procedure. I have lived half a century and have been a guest at church weddings of all denominations, and I have yet to see a best man come down the aisle in a wheel chair, riding a horse or on foot. It is customary for the groom and the best man to quietly enter from the right front. The bride comes down the aisle on the arm of her father.

ANNOYED GRANDMA

ASK-- Dorothy Draper

If you happen to go away for the week end — or even if you just have spent a few hours in a movie and so are temporarily removed from your daily life — stop as you re-enter your house and look about you. Try to see your rooms as if you were a total stranger seeing them for the first time and decide whether they satisfy your taste. If they don't, try to put your finger on the reason. Perhaps it is color. Have you used too many? too much? not enough? not the right combinations? Be sure your colors are honest, fresh and clear. By honest colors I do not necessarily mean bright shades. A light powder blue is just as valuable as dark dahlia red as long as it isn't wishy washy. Clear fresh splashes of color can do more for a room than any other one thing. Try it and see!

Mrs. R. C. asks:
"I really need help. I have a living room 18x24 with a burgundy rug, pink walls and light green drapes. The ceiling is painted blue and also one wall (end.) It is a dark room and I want a lighter ceiling and what to do with the wall that is 9x18? Should I use a mural paper or how could I treat it to get away from so much plain space and what color?"

DEAR MRS. R. C.:
A burgundy rug, pink walls, light green draperies and a ceiling and one wall in blue sounds like too many unrelated colors in one living room. Why not paint the ceiling and three walls white and use a mural paper, say, a white background with a lot of green and a splash of red for that one wall. This would tie in nicely with your green curtains and the rug and would make the room much lighter.

Mrs. C. W. V. asks:
"I will soon become the owner of a new home. I am fond of Swedish modern, my husband likes Early American. How can we compromise on the furniture buying and best make a balanced, attractive home?"

DEAR MRS. C. W. V.:
Fortunately Early American pieces are cheerful mixers and seem to look right (if chosen with taste) with any of their more modern partners. A honey pine table and a blonde Swedish chair, for instance go together as well as lingonberries and Swedish pancakes. Or you could compromise by having your Swedish modern for the important or basic pieces and using Early American Accessories, lamps, vases, pictures, mirrors, small rocker, etc.

SUBURBIA

NORTHEAST HEIGHTS

Birthday anniversaries, wedding anniversaries and travelers are in the suburbia news this morning.

First we learned that Miss Mary Jo Logan of Northeast Heights was a recent hostess when she entertained a group of her sisters in Zeta Tau Alpha sorority (and their dates) at her home.

COTNER TERRACE

Then we heard that Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Leddy were a dinner host and hostess on Sunday when they invited guests to celebrate the birthday anniversary of their son, Don Desch.

And on Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Albert Strain had a little celebrating. The event was the 46th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Strain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moore, and the evening included "dinner out," for the foursome.

In the travel department are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Winkler who, last week end, took to the highways and drove to Nashua, Ia., where they were the guests of Mrs.

Coeds Were Brides On Sunday

MRS. C. EVERETT WILKENS

Bouquets of white chrysanthemums and blue-tinted stock decorated the candle-lit chancel of the DeWitt Methodist Church Sunday evening, April 10, for the wedding of Miss Joan Klasek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Klasek of Western, and C. Everett Wilkens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilkens of DeWitt. The 7 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Evans.

Attending her sister as maid of honor, Miss Camille Klasek of Lincoln appeared in a bouffant-skirted frock of blue organdy embroidered in white daisies and sashed with velvet. Costumed identically was the bridesmatron, Mrs. Larry Owen of Rapid City, S.D., sister of the bridegroom.

William Brier of Lincoln served as best man, and seating the guests were Del-

MRS. ROBERT DALE LUKE

The wedding of Miss Connie Ruth Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Cole of Kearney, and Robert Dale Luke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Luke of St. Petersburg, Fla., took place on Sunday afternoon, April 10. White cathedral candles and arrangement of white chrysanthemums appointed the chancel of the First Methodist Church at Kearney for the 4 o'clock service, which was read by the Rev. Gale Moon.

Silver-green peau de soie fashioned the bell-skirted frocks of the attendants who were Miss Roberta Cole of Kearney, as her sister's maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Jane Lyman, Omaha; Miss Ginger Robertson, North Platte; Miss Mary Luke, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Miss Marilyn Richman, Kearney.

Serving as best man was Clarke Nelson of Holdrege, and the ushers were Joe Knoll, Nebraska City; Glen Burbridge, Omaha; Charles Smith, Holdrege; and Dave Miller, Columbus. Jon Cole and Jim Luke, brothers of the bride and bridegroom, lighted the candles.

The bride chose white peau de soie for her wedding gown. The elongated bodice was designed with a portrait neckline banded with pearl-embroidered Alencon lace, and the lace motif was repeated in appliques on the circular skirt which extended into a train. Her silk illusion veil was held by a pearl coronet, and she carried a white orchid showered with white roses and stephanotis.

Mr. and Mrs. Luke will reside in Lincoln where both are students at the University of Nebraska. The bride is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, and Mr. Luke is a member of Phi Kappa Psi.

Ceremony

Miss Mae Sylvan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Sylvan of Gothenburg, became the bride of Gary Fisher, son of Mrs. Ed Padra of North Platte, on Sunday, April 10. Tall arrangements of Easter lilies, and white and yellow chrysanthemums, formed the background in the Evangelical Free Church at Gothenburg for the ceremony, which was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Johnson.

Mrs. Charles Shell of Lincoln attended the bride as matron of honor and wore a frock of yellow organza. She carried a spray bouquet of yellow and white roses. Miss Brenda Fickenscher was the flower girl, and lighting the candles were Shirley Anderson and Hildur Pearson, all of Gothenburg.

Serving Mr. Fisher as best man was Jack Hansen of North Platte, and the ushers were Roger Sylvan and Leo Sylvan, Gothenburg, brothers of the bride.

The bride appeared in a gown of white peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The pearl-trimmed lace edged the cameo neckline of the long-sleeved bodice of silk, and the lace formed wide front and back panels to complete the flaring skirt, which ended in a chapel train. A jeweled crown held her veil of illusion, and she carried a white orchid encircled with valley-lilies.

The couple will reside at 2950 South St. in Lincoln, where the bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Fisher is a graduate of the university and a member of the YWCA staff.

Afternoon Wedding

MRS. GARY HILL

At a 3 o'clock ceremony on Sunday afternoon, April 10, the marriage of Miss Cecilia Fishman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Fishman of Kansas City, Mo., to Gary Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hill, took place at the Tifereth Israel Synagogue. The ceremony was solemnized beneath a canopy of white stock, white chrysanthemums and clusters of pink sweetheart roses. Forming a background for the service was a Star of David formed of chrysanthemums shading from deep to pastel pink.

Lighted candles and arrangements of pink and white chrysanthemums and sweetheart roses appointed the altar. Rabbi Abraham L. Rosenblum solemnized the service and Israel Zimmerman was the Cantor. Miss Sandra Salmon played the wedding music, and Leon Lishner was the vocal soloist.

Wearing alike frocks of pale pink chiffon over silk taffeta in matching shade, the attendants were Miss Harriet Schneider of St. Louis, the maid of honor; and bridesmaids Miss Marcia Bordman and Miss Lois Singman, both of Kansas City. Each carried a Star of David bouquet of deep pink and pastel pink carnations touched with glitter and encircled in a ring of white quilted satin. Martin Davidow of Kansas City and Stan Cohen lighted the candles.

Joseph Hill served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Morris Fishman of Kansas City; Bailey Kuklin, Zeff Bernstein, Al Forman and Marty Sopher.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

The finest compliment you can pay a bridge player is to say that he sees through the backs of the cards. What is meant by this is that he plays as though all 52 cards are exposed; and almost anybody would play perfectly if he knew where each card was located.

Sometimes this flair is called "card reading." For an example of excellent card reading we have this hand played by Harry Fishbein in the match last year between the United States and Argentina.

West led the K-Q of diamonds and shifted to the three of spades. Fishbein played low from dummy and won the jack with the ace. He could not very well afford to draw trumps until he had first ruffed a diamond and established a spade. The problem of avoiding a club loser had to be postponed until after these preliminaries.

So Fishbein ruffed a diamond in dummy and led a low spade. Jacques, the Argentine East, went up with the king and returned a spade.

The time for decision had come. Fishbein did not know that the queen of clubs would drop if he simply played the A-K. But he did know one thing — he knew Jacques had made a vulnerable overcall with the A-10-7-5-2 of diamonds and the K-J-9 of spades. He therefore had to have the queen of clubs for his skimpy bid.

Accordingly, Fishbein led the jack and Jacques covered with the queen. Declarer took the king, drew trumps, and led a club towards the A-9-7. West played low and Fishbein thereupon played the ace, refusing the obvious finesse, and caught the ten.

The reasoning was quite simple. Jacques was known to have started with three spades, three hearts, and five diamonds — hence two clubs. But Fishbein knew that Jacques was too good a player to have covered the jack with the queen if he had held Q-x of clubs. Therefore, Jacques became marked with the Q-10.

POSIES ACCENT EASTER IN THE YOUTH PARADE

1. You'll be the prettiest pedestrian in the Easter Parade if your neckline blooms with blossoms. For what could be more appropriate than lace-like lilacs fanning the collar line of an avocado shaded sweater? As young actress Maggie Pierce illustrates, even the collar tabs boast leaves, jeweled with shimmery stones to duplicate that moist-from-the-garden look.

2. A gay salute to Spring is a necklace of full-blown roses. Designed by Lee Herman, the specially shaded petals stand up from the collar and frame the neck like a lei. Green velvet leaves are also appliqued around the white mohair and spiraled stem-fashion at the front.

3. No reason to question whether "he loves me, loves me not," for everyone will admire you in this "flowering" sweater. Colorful daisies, with yarn centers and petals, tumble across the collar and down the bodice. Maggie, seen in MGM's "The Subterraneans," finds multi-color flowers blend with a variety of spring dresses and skirts.

years in the rebuilding at cost of $15,000 to $20,000.

Park Board Chairman Evans Meier said in addition to the money, it will take "lots of hard work" to put the 55-acre park back to where it was before the flood.

Meier said the park board had asked Gov. Ralph Brooks if some of the Federal funds allotted to Nebraska for flood work could be used in construction of park roads, spillway, diking and reseeding of grassed areas.

Exclusively Used

Meier said the park facilities are used in late summer and early fall by 5,000 persons from Norfolk and northeast Nebraska each week.

Some type of farm equipment will be necessary to move the silt and sand left in the park by the flood waters.

He said between 35 and 40 acres will have to be worked to provide a new soil bed and then be reseeded to grass.

Weatherman Sees Rain

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are due Monday for Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma and eastern Kansas. Rain also is expected in the Pacific states, Nevada, Wyoming and northern Colorado. It will be fair elsewhere with a warmer trend from the Atlantic coast west through the Mississippi Valley and in the southern plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

ATTENTION: MOTORISTS

Omaha (P) — Gov. Ralph Brooks' traffic safety coordinator warns that especially dangerous days lie ahead on Nebraska highways.

Gerald Schwartz of Omaha said motorists are hitting the highways in record numbers now because traffic was so limited by snows and floods of recent months.

"Last year," he said, "19 persons were killed from April 10 through April 30 — about one a day." The 1959 traffic record was considered good for that period.

Up to Sunday, 45 persons had died in traffic mishaps in Nebraska, compared with 67 a year ago.

Gov. Brooks is preparing special measures and messages for the Easter weekend, Schwartz said, and Col. C. J. Sanders will see to it that the State Safety Patrol continues its policy of absolute speed enforcement.

"This means," Schwartz said, "that 66 miles an hour in a 65 mile an hour zone is against the law."

Another State Highway Death

Ashby (P) — Henry I. Brammer, 42, of Julesburg, Colo., died late Saturday night in a one-car accident about three-fourths mile west of here on State Highway 2.

The State Safety Patrol said the car driven by Brammer apparently went out of control, left the highway and crashed. He was alone at the time.

The death boosted the state highway fatality toll for the year to 46 as compared with 67 a year ago.

ATOMS IN AG TOUR SLATED BY NU STAFF

Home economics programs will be held in the local high school building according to Dr. Franklin Eldridge, associate director of resident instruction at the College of Agriculture.

New 'Miss McCook' Tearful After Win

By Gene Budig

McCook—The more than 3,000 persons cheered as the new "Miss McCook" was announced.

Seconds later, contestant Kitty Sue Troxell dashed from the stage and burst into tears.

Backstage observers might have thought the 19-year-old McCook Junior College beauty had lost the contest.

But it was just the reverse.

"I'm so happy ... I just don't know what to say," the newly crowned queen gasped.

By this time, the 6 other contestants, all wearing smiles, gathered around Miss Troxell to offer their congratulations.

Columbus Next

The 5-5, 115-pound McCookite now will compete in the "Miss Nebraska" contest at Columbus early this summer.

Contest runner-ups were Gail Bonar and Ruby Henshaw, both of McCook.

Sponsored by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, the beauty pageant was held in conjunction with the annual McCook Boat Show.

Officials tabbed both the pageant and the boat show "successes."

Lincoln Ties Charleston; Work Becoming Serious

... LYNN, WILLIAMSON IN HUTCH'S LINEUP

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star
Hollywood, Fla. — Skipper Ira Hutchinson's Lincoln Chiefs and Charleston battled to a 5-5 tie here Sunday afternoon as the serious chore of readying the season openers began in the Chicago White Sox training camp.

From the two groups which played Sunday, manager Frank Scalzi and Hutchinson will get the bulk of the players for their Charleston (Class A Sally) and Lincoln clubs.

Sunday's action was plagued by high winds and flying sand, and when Lincoln tied the count at 5-5 in the bottom of the 8th, White Sox officials decided to call the contest after 9 frames.

There was no morning workout Sunday, and the bulk of the 100-man training corps here attended Palm Sunday services at local churches.

Two Holdovers
The Lincoln team Sunday was composed of mostly new faces. Only Pug Williamson and Jim Lynn — who divided time in right field — were holdovers from last year.

Hutchinson used Gil Valbuena at shortstop, Julie Duran — former Fidel Castro soldier — and Al Weis at second, Tom McGraw at first, Monty Bond at 3rd, Paul Higgs in left field, Fred Loeskam in center and the Williamson-Lynn duo in right.

Roberto Vasquez did the catching while the pitching was divided between Dan O'sinski, Fred Talbot and Willie Calvin.

Victim Of Errors
O'sinski allowed only one hit in 3 innings, but he was the victim of a pair of errors in the 3rd inning which let Charleston tally 3 runs. Talbot was nipped for 4 hits and 2 Charleston runs during his 5 innings. Calvin blanked the Scalzi club during the 9th.

Lincoln came to life in the 5th when Valbuena walked and Duran singled. Both came home on McGraw's booming triple to center and the Chiefs' first-sacker tallied on Williamson's single to left.

Hutchinson's club tied it in the 8th when pinchhitter Jim Hicks walked and Weis singled sharply to right and came around on an outfield error.

Footnotes ... Catching for Charleston was Sam Hairston, the former Colorado Springs backstop who used to give Lincoln fits in the Western League. Sam is slated for duty at Charleston again this year. Gene Duffy, former Notre Dame basketball and baseball star who played at Holdrege in 1959, was in centerfield for Charleston. The little dynamo hit a home run in the 4th ... Don Gordon, a 1959 Chief, played left for Charleston, while Dick Selinger — Cedar Rapids 3rd baseman last year — was at 3rd ... Some 100 fans were on hand for the exhibition game at Dowdy Field.

Closing Birds Edge Venturi

... FINSTERWALD CLOSE 3RD

Augusta, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, a faltering and apparently beaten favorite, birdied the last two holes in a blazing finish Sunday and won the Masters golf championship by a stroke from Ken Venturi.

Palmer came in with a final round of 70 and a 72-hole total of 282 to Venturi's 283.

Palmer, a front-runner for the first 3 rounds, seemed beaten when he came to the 17th green after Venturi had shot a finishing 70.

But he holed out a tremendous birdie putt, fully 30 feet, which barely rolled far enough to drop into the cup.

Then at the final hole he fired a beautiful iron shot to the green and, showing no signs of nervousness, sank a 6-footer to win.

For Venturi it was the second time the Masters title has escaped him in a frustrating manner. Four years ago he led for 3 rounds, only to lose out to Jackie Burke when he blew sky high on the final round.

Confident Play
Sunday he went out confidently to overtake Palmer's lead, beat off a challenge by 1958 PGA champion Dow Finsterwald and apparently had it won until Palmer made his amazing finish.

For the crowd of almost 40,000 that streamed across the big Augusta National course, this finish was fully as exciting as last year's, when Art Wall birdied 5 of the last 6 holes to win by a stroke from Cary Middlecoff.

This time it was a 3-day race right to the last shot with Venturi and Finsterwald waging a head-to-head duel for the lead and Palmer, starting raggedly, striving to overtake them.

2nd Masters
It was the second victory for Palmer in this golf classic, played annually before huge galleries on the beautiful 6,850-yard, par 36-36-72 Augusta National course.

Two years ago he shot a 284 score to win from Doug Ford and Fred Hawkins by a stroke, but that victory lacked the suspense of this one.

Palmer had rounds of 67-73-72-70 for the tournament. He took the lead on the first

Top Prep Field Marks Forecast Good Season

... UNKNOWN HAVE LEADS IN SHOT, DISCUS

But earlier in the week, Hohn got off a fine 21-11 broad jump in a dual meet with Lincoln Southeast. Jim Levy of SE is second in the event with a 21-7 in the same meet.

Hagglund Tops
Dave Hagglund of Omaha North, gold medalist in the state high jump the past two seasons, leapt 6-1 1/4 in the Omaha indoor meet to top the list. It's the best jump in his career.

Tom Dollison of Boys Town did 6-1 1/2 in the Columbus meet for the top outdoor effort. Indoor efforts included in the field event listings, but will not be considered in track.

Galen Schwaner, pole vaulter from Scottsbluff, is better known for football and track achievements.

But he placed in the pole vault last year, with a best effort of 11-6. His 11-10 1/2 in the Scottsbluff Relays grabs the No. 1 opening spot.

Two Unknowns
The unknowns are LeRoy Miller of Wood River in the discus and Don Kotre of Omaha Benson, shot putter. Both provide outstanding field marks as early targets.

Miller, although bettering 140 feet last year and finishing 3rd in Class C, has not been a top winner. His 150-2 at Columbus, however, establishes him firmly in the event.

Last year, not a single athlete topped the 150 mark with the platter. This season, 2 others, Joe Steele of Scottsbluff and David City St. Mary's John Kirby, are also over 145.

53-11 1/2 Shot

Kotre's 53-11 1/2 with the shot is one of the best early-season efforts with the 12-pound weight. He is nearly matched, however, by Charles Hircok of Broken Bow, who did 53-8 in the Burwell Wrangler Relays.

Kotre did only 48-3 last season, ranking 25th in the state, and failed to place in the state meet. But this season's record already places him among the top 10 in the all-time shot put list.

Five shot putters are now over 50 feet, compared to only 3 at this time last year.

Here is the top 10 in each field event:

YANKS' COATES LIMITS WHITE SOX TO 1 BLOW

Goodman Poke Ruins Chance At No-Hitter

Sarasota Fla. (P)—Righthander Jim Coates held the Chicago White Sox to one hit in 7 innings Sunday as the New York Yankees thrashed Dick Donovan and Barry Latman for an 11-0 victory.

Bill Goodman lashed the first pitch to him in the 7th cleanly through the left side of the infield to spoil Coates' no-hitter.

The only other previous baserunners were 3 who received bases on balls. Ryne Duren walked 3 but did not allow a hit in the last two frames.

Elston Howard, who is on a hitting rampage, belted a 3-run homer off Latman in the 7th. The catcher has made 11 hits in his last 19 at bats.

The Yankees battered Donovan for 10 hits, 5 of them in succession in the 6th when they scored 3 times. The longest drive of the day was a 430-foot triple by Mickey Mantle in the 4th.

The shutout was first against the Sox and the 5th by the New York staff. The Yankees now have a 11-7 record. The American League champions are 15-11.

National Opens Tuesday; Week Jump On American

By Associated Press

San Francisco and Milwaukee are expected to provide stiff competition for the defending champion Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League pennant race, opening Tuesday, a week ahead of the American League.

Old dependable Robin Roberts is primed to pitch his 11th straight opener for Philadelphia in Cincinnati and Warren Spahn again gets the call for Milwaukee in Pittsburgh.

A handful of rookies and a generous smattering of veterans who have been traded since last season, add spice to the lineups. A check of the 1959 opening day batting orders shows a 40 per cent turnover.

Many players who opened for one team last spring will be playing for another. Many who finished last year as regulars did not start last opening day.

Split Openers

For the first time, the major leagues will have split

9th scored Don Hoak with the winning run for the Pittsburgh Pirates in a 3-2 exhibition baseball victory over Kansas City.

It was the final exhibition contest for the Pirates, who wound up with a 15-10 record.

Wisconsin Boxer Fights For Life; Brain Injured

... SAID 'HOLDING HIS OWN' AFTER SURGERY

Madison, Wis. (P)—A 22-year-old University of Wisconsin boxer battled for his life Sunday after undergoing extensive surgery for a brain injury suffered in a vain bid to defend his national collegiate championship.

Charles Mohr of Merrick, N.Y., one of the nation's top college boxers, was in critical condition but "holding his own" at university hospital. Doctors would not even hazard a guess at his chances of survival.

Mohr collapsed from a brain hemorrhage after losing to Stu Bartell of San Jose (Calif.) State in the 165-pound title bout of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. tournament.

Bartell's victory enabled San Jose State to edge Wisconsin for the team prize in the 23rd annual championships.

Among Mohr's many fans in the crowd of more than 10,000 were two sisters, Carole and Joan. They hurried to the hospital with their brother. One collapsed from the ordeal and was placed under sedation. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mohr, flew to Madison from New York.

Coach Sick
Bartell, who had lost to Mohr in a dual meet only a week ago, could not be reached for comment. But his coach, Julie Mendendez, said:

"It makes me sick. I didn't think Stu hit him that hard." Friends, teammates, ring opponents and Wisconsin officials trooped to the hospital as news of Mohr's injury spread. Members of the Sacramento (Calif.) State team awakened a priest to open a church and have candles lit even as surgery was performed.

Mohr was knocked down by a brutal right-hand punch to the head midway through the second round. He regained his feet but ran into another series of crashing blows. The referee stopped the action at 1:49 as Mohr leaned helplessly against the ropes.

JR. LEGION CIRCUIT IS ORGANIZED

Kearney (P)—Six cities Sunday organized the Nebraska State Legion League, which will play a 20-game baseball schedule over a 3-month period.

Cities joining in the American Legion baseball loop are McCook, North Platte, Kearney, Grand Island, Holdrege and Lexington—all former members of the now-defunct Class D professional Nebraska State League.

The league will open its schedule Sunday May 29 and close Friday July 22.

Sponsors said the loop would not in any way conflict with regularly-scheduled Nebraska American Legion baseball tournaments.

Bob Van Tine of Kearney was named executive-secretary of the new loop.

Van Tine said the league would operate on a 9-inning game basis, except when one team leads by 10 runs and the 7-inning rule prevails.

Golf Show Sponsor Supported By PGA

Augusta, Ga. (P)—The Professional Golfers Assn. issued a formal statement Sunday expressing confidence in producers of the golf show involved in the recent Sam Snead incident.

"There was no intention in our original statement April 7 to express any lack of confidence in the producers of World Championship Golf, with whom we have worked in conducting and filming the matches," the statement said.

After Snead had disclosed he'd continued a match with Mason Rudolph after finding a 15th and illegal club in his bag, the PGA announced it planned to have a supervisor at all future TV matches, carrying PGA sanctions.

"Golf is today, as it always has been, a wonderful game," the latest statement said. "There has never been so much as the slightest suggestion of a blemish on it. Nothing has happened to alter that situation."

The show was independently produced by Fred Briskin and shown on NBC.

Snead said after the match he intentionally flubbed some shots to keep from winning the match he'd already lost technically.

Briskin had objected to the part of the April 7 statement saying a PGA representative would be on hand at all future TV matches.

Golfers Unlimber; Turnouts All Good

Lincoln linksmen unlimbered in good numbers over the weekend, all Capital City layouts reporting brisk activity.

There weren't many par-busters in the crowd, but it was the first chance at unhampered rounds of play for most.

Fairways and greens were dry, some to the point at which playing surfaces could use precipitation.

By courses it looked like this:

Lincoln Country Club

OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45 WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER

Chevy middleweight shows the big rigs how it's done!

That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303's "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!

We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! ... Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.

Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dogging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

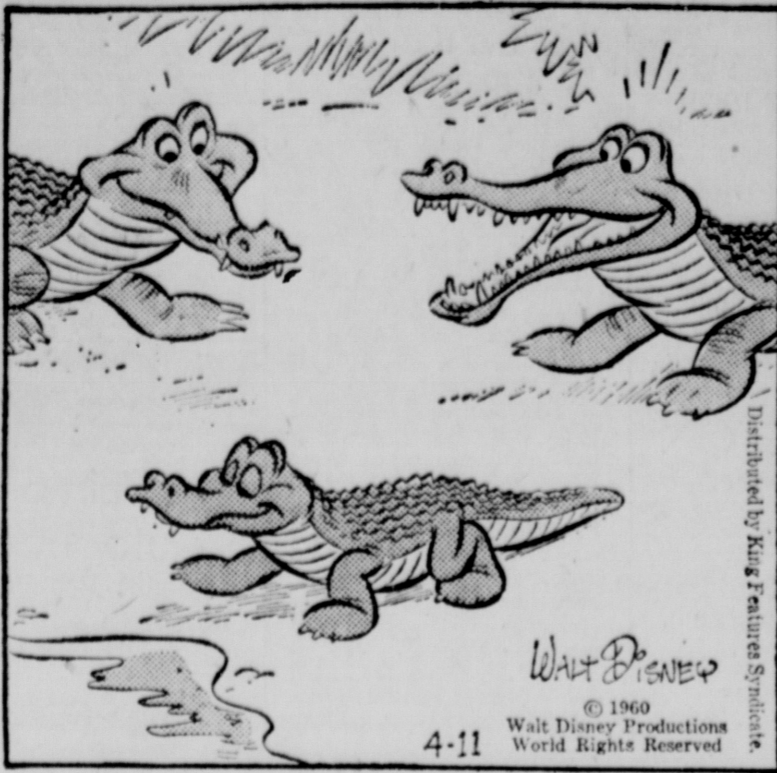

"Why don't we turn it all over to the government and let them give us what they think we need?"

"Junior's large for his age—only ten and already almost SUITCASE size!"

"GOETHE RECEIVED HIS FIRST INSPIRATION FOR HIS GREAT POEM, FAUST, AT 19-- BUT DID NOT COMPLETE IT UNTIL HE WAS 82!"

"Albert left it up to me, either a dryer or a new car this year, but not both."

"Watch it! You knocked over my box of signboard letters again."

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

The uniformed services provide special hazard pay ($110 a month for officers, $55 a month for enlisted men) for duty involving exposure to lepers. The late Tom Mix, Hollywood cowboy film star, and his horse, Tony, are still popular idols to movie audiences in Albania. Their pictures are woven into many tapestries which decorate homes in the capital, Tirana.
